About me

Select any topic, and I can master it within two days. Provide me with a project, and I'll have it built in just one week. At the age of 19, there's simply no one comparable to my level of expertise. My journey began at 12 when I delved into programming, followed by my entry into math and computer science competitions at 15. By 17, I independently traveled to Silicon Valley, and at 18, I received funding from the German Government for a startup project. Today, at 19, I stand as a highly skilled individual, surpassing the competence of many students who have completed their bachelor's degrees. My teacher aptly describes me as a "sponge" because I absorb and excel at anything that comes my way. Securing a Software Developer internship at IBM at such a young age speaks for itself and having more than 20 certifications published at my LinkedIn profile (https://www.linkedin.com/in/martin-mohammed-30019a207/).
